TRINITY COLLEGE, HARTFORD.

TRINITY COLLEGE, HARTFORD, is an academic Society, of which the control is vested in a CORPORATION, known in law by the style or title of The Trustees of Trinity College.

The design of a College in New England, connected with the church of the mother country, and so far as possible modeled after its celebrated Universities, originated with the excellent BERKELEY, Bishop of Cloyne, who, with this view, purchased an estate and resided for some time in Rhode Island. Though he was compelled reluctantly to relinquish his project, it was nevertheless not entirely without fruits. To his example and benefactions may be traced much of that interest in sound learning and Christian education, which led to the first efforts for the establishment of a similar institution in Connecticut.

A Convocation of the Clergy of the Diocese, held in 1792, under SEABURY, first Bishop of Connecticut, took the primary steps towards establishing the Episcopal Academy at Cheshire; and this, though incorporated with limited privileges, was intended as the foundation for a higher institution, so soon as a charter conferring full collegiate powers could be obtained from the State. It was often styled familiarly The Seabury College.

Bishop BROWNELL, who succeeded to the Episcopate in 1819, was enabled very shortly to perfect these designs. The charter of Washington College was granted in 1823 ; and in the following year the institution was opened at Hartford, under the presidency of the Bishop.

In 1845, by permission of the Legislature, the name of the College was changed to the present style, to attest forever the faith of its founders, and their zeal for the perpetual glory and honor of the ONE HOLY AND UNDIVIDED TRINITY.

To this brief History must be added some account of the internal organization and condition of the College.

THE SENATUS ACADEMICUS consists of two houses, known as the CORPORATION and the HOUSE OF CONVOCATION.

THE CORPORATION, on which the other house is wholly dependent, and to which, by law, belongs the supreme control of the College, consists of not more than twenty-four Trustees, resident within the State of Connecticut. The Chancellor and President of the College, being ex officio members ; and the Chancellor being ex officio President of the same. They have authority to fill their own vacancies ; to appoint to offices and professorships ; to direct and manage the funds for the good of the College ; and in general, to exercise the powers of a Collegiate Society, according to the provisions of the charter.

THE HOUSE OF CONVOCATION consists of the Fellows and Professors of Trinity College, with all persons who have received any academic degree whatever in the same, except such as may be lawfully deprived of their privileges.

Its business is such as may from time to time be delegated by the Corporation, from which it derives its existence ; and is, at present, limited to consulting and advising for the good of the College ; nominating the Junior

Fellows, and all candidates for admissions ad eundem; making laws for its own regulation; proposing plans, measures or counsel to the Corporation; and to instituting, endowing and naming, with concurrence of the same, professorships, scholarships, prizes, medals and the like.

The CHANCELLOR is the Bishop of the Diocese of Connecticut, and is also the Visitor of the College.

The PRESIDENT. This officer, as his title imports, is the resident head and Rector of the college, and with the PROCTORS, who are the two Senior Professors, the Executive of all laws for the discipline of under-graduates.

The FELLOWS. There are six Fellows appointed by the Corporation alone; and six Junior Fellows, who must be Masters of Arts, appointed by the Corporation on nomination of Convocation; and these together make the Board of Fellows. To this Board the Corporation commits the superintendence of the strictly academical business of the College; of the course of study and examinations; of the College laws; of collegiate dress, and the like; and also certain powers and privileges in recommending for degrees. Each Fellow and Junior Fellow is elected for three years; but there is no emolument connected with the office, besides a provision for necessary expenses incurred in its discharge. The Fellows, therefore, under existing laws, are not ordinarily resident.

The DEAN OF CONVOCATION presides in that House, and is elected by the same biennially.

The PROFESSORS hold their appointments from the Corporation, and by lectures and otherwise, instruct in their several departments. With the President and Tutors, they also form a board of government and control over the under-graduates.

TUTORS and LECTURERS are appointed from time to time by the Corporation, to assist the Professors in the several departments of instruction. Private Tutors have no recognized character as officers of the College.

SCHOLARSHIPS. These are permanent endowments, held by certain under-graduates according to the terms of their foundation, and paying stipends of different amounts to their incumbents.

HALLS. There are three buildings belonging to the College, which, in 1845, received the names of the first three Bishops of the Diocese. SEABURY HALL, erected in 1825, contains the Chapel, and the Library, Cabinet, and other public chambers. JARVIS HALL, erected in the same year, and BROWNELL HALL, erected in 1845, contain rooms for the officers and students; and a wing of each is the residence of a Professor and his family.

The GROUNDS, on which the Halls are erected, are an area of fourteen acres, laid out with walks, and ornamented with shade trees and shrubbery. The site is elevated, overlooking on one side the city of Hartford, within the limits of which the grounds are partly situated, and on the other the Little River, (a branch of the Connecticut,) which forms their western boundary. This river is suitable for boating and for exercise in swimming.

The LIBRARY AND CABINET. There are about twelve thousand volumes in the Library in Seabury Hall, (in which are also the portraits of several officers and benefactors of the College,) including the valuable libraries of the Professor of Ecclesiastical History, and a member of the Corporation. There are also two libraries belonging to societies of under-graduates, containing an aggregate of six thousand volumes. The cabinet is an extensive collection of minerals and geological specimens. A valuable philosophical apparatus is distributed through the lecture-rooms of the several Professors requiring its aid in their instructions.

TERMS. There are three terms in the year, of from twelve to fourteen weeks each; during which every under-graduate is required to be resident, unless under special dispensation from the President.

EXAMINATIONS. These are held at the end of each Term, in presence of examiners appointed by the Fellows, from their own number, or otherwise; and every under-graduate is required to be present and sustain his prescribed examinations at such times, unless a special examination is allowed for sufficient causes.

VACATIONS. The Christmas vacation is two weeks from the Thursday preceding Christmas day. The Easter vacation, three weeks from the close of Lent term. The Midsummer vacation is eight weeks from Commencement day.

EXHIBITIONS. Junior Exhibition occurs at the close of Lent Term. Exhibitions of the Literary Societies, at such times as are deemed most convenient.

COMMENCEMENT. The last Thursday in July is Commencement day. On the day preceding, the Corporation and House of Convocation assemble, and an address and poem are publicly pronounced before the latter. On this day all applications for admissions ad eundem come before Convocation; and the annual elections of Fellows and Junior Fellows are usually held on this day, or on the morning following. On Commencement day, candidates for degrees perform appointed exercises in public; and all degrees are conferred and announced with prescribed forms.

DEGREES. The Corporation is authorized by its charter to confer degrees in the Arts, and in the faculties of Law, Medicine and Divinity. Nominations for degrees may come from the Fellows and Professors, or from the House of Convocation ; but the candidates are admitted only by vote of the Corporation ; and all degrees are publicly conferred in its name, by the President.

Degrees in the faculties of Divinity and Law are conferred, at present, either in course, honoris causâ, or on admission ad eundem. For the degree of Bachelor of Arts, the candidate must have sustained all his examinations, and paid all fees and charges ; and must be nominated to the Corporation by the Fellows, and the Faculty of Arts. To proceed Master of Arts, a like nomination is requisite at a period of not less than three years after commencing Bachelor. Masters may proceed Bachelors in either of the Faculties, at the end of seven years, upon the certificate of the Board of Fellows, grounded on examination, and the recommendation of the Chancellor, and the President of the College. Bachelors in either of the Faculties may proceed Doctors in the same, at the expiration of three years, on the recommendation of the Chancellor, accompanied with a certificate of examiners, and a satisfactory thesis composed by the candidate. Degrees honoris causâ appertain to the Corporation only.

Applications for Degrees in course, should be made to the President of the College during Lent Term.

The instruction given in the preceding course of studies, is designed to be such as will promote habits of patient and accurate investigation. For this purpose, in the study of the ancient languages, particular attention is paid to their grammatical construction, to the composition and derivation of words; and the translations, especially towards the beginning of the course, are required to be as literal as the idiom of our language will permit. As the student advances, more freedom of translation is permitted, though in no case is he allowed to deviate from the exact meaning of his author, which he is required to express with clearness, precision and elegance.

In Mathematics, and in the English Studies generally, the most approved text-books are used, and the student is required to give an accurate analysis of the reasoning of his author. After the recitation is completed, remarks are made by the instructor on the principles recited, and their practical application shown by familiar illustrations. Lectures are also read on subjects connected with the main branches of study.

UNIVERSITY STUDENTS.

For the accommodation of those students who may desire to omit certain of the studies prescribed for a degree, the following provision has been made in the College statutes.

Students who do not propose to attend the whole course, may be permitted to recite with the regular classes, in such studies as, upon examination, they shall be found qualified to pursue. They shall enjoy all the privileges of the regular students, and shall be entitled to a certificate from the President, stating the time they were members of the College, and the studies pursued during the time.

GOVERNMENT AND DISCIPLINE.

The Government is administered by the President and Professors. It is designed to be mild and paternal—appealing to the better feelings of the heart, and aiming to prevent, rather than punish misconduct. Punishments involving public disgrace are resorted to with reluctance. If a student does not conduct himself to the satisfaction of the Faculty, his parent or guardian will be promptly informed of it, and if it is judged necessary, requested to remove him from the Institution. In cases where despatch is important, the delinquent will be privately dismissed.

An accurate daily account of the proficiencies of every student, and also of his delinquencies,—if any occur,—is kept; an abstract of which is transmitted to his parent or guardian at the close of each term.

PUBLIC WORSHIP.

Prayers are attended every morning and evening in the College Chapel, when all the students are required to be present. They are also required to attend public worship on the Lord's day, either in the Chapel, or at such places as their parents or guardians may desire.

EXPENSES.

For tuition, $11 per term; for room rent, from $3 to $4.50 per term; for the use of the Library, $1 per term; for sweeping rooms, ringing the bell, fuel for recitation rooms, and printing, $2 per term; all payable in advance.

Besides the above, there will be occasional assessments for damages, extra printing, or other common expenses.

Students admitted to an advanced standing, unless from other Colleges, are required to pay $10 for each year of such advancement ; and for a shorter time than one year, in proportion.

The students reside in the College, and provide for themselves bed and bedding, furniture for their rooms, fire-wood, candles, stationery and washing. Books and furniture may be sold, when the student has no further use for them, at a moderate reduction from the original cost.

No Commons are established, as it is preferred that the students should board in private families, in the neighborhood of the College. Good board can now be procured for $2.25 per week.

By a regulation of the Trustees, the tuition is remitted to the Beneficiaries of the Church Scholarship Society, and to such other necessitous students as design to enter the ministry. The necessary College expenses of such, exclusive of personal expenses, for clothing, fuel, furniture, &c., are as follows :

| | | |
|---|---------------------------|---|
| Board, from | $60.00 to $80 per year. | |
| Room rent, | 10.50 | " |
| Use of Library, | 3.00 | " |
| Attendance, Printing, &c., | 6.00 | " |
| Assessment for public damages, &c., | 4.50 | " |
| <hr/> | | |
| Total, | $84.00 | |

To prevent extravagant or improper expenditures, it is recommended that all funds designed for the use of students should be placed in the hands of the College Bursar, who superintends their expenses with a parental discretion. The present Bursar is DUNCAN L. STEWART, M. A. Professor of Ancient Languages.

Trinity College, Hartford.

TRINITY COLLEGE, HARTFORD, is an academic society, of which the control is vested in a CORPORATION, known in law by the style or title of The Trustees of Trinity College.

The design of a college in New England, connected with the Church of the mother country, and so far as possible modelled after its celebrated Universities, originated with the excellent BERKELEY, Bishop of Cloyne, who, with this view, purchased an estate and resided for some time in Rhode Island. Though he was compelled reluctantly to relinquish his project, it was nevertheless not entirely without fruits. To his example and benefactions may be traced much of that interest in sound learning and Christian education, which led to the first efforts for the establishment of a similar institution in Connecticut.

A Convocation of the Clergy of the Diocese, held in 1792, under SEABURY, first Bishop of Connecticut, took the primary steps toward establishing the Episcopal Academy at Cheshire; and this, though incorporated with limited privileges, was intended as the foundation for a higher institution, so soon as a charter conferring full collegiate powers could be obtained from the State. It was often styled familiarly The Seabury College.

Bishop BROWNELL, who succeeded to the Episcopate in 1819, was enabled very shortly to perfect these designs. The charter of Washington College was granted in 1823; and in the following year the institution was opened at Hartford, under the presidency of the Bishop.

In 1845, by permission of the Legislature, the name of the College was changed to the present style, to attest forever the faith of its founders, and their zeal for the perpetual glory and honor of the ONE HOLY AND UNDIVIDED TRINITY.

To this brief history must be added some account of the internal organization and condition of the College.

The SENATUS ACADEMICUS consists of two houses, known as the CORPORATION and the HOUSE OF CONVOCATION.

The CORPORATION, on which the other house is wholly dependent, and to which, by law, belongs the supreme control of the College, consists of not more than twenty-four trustees, resident within the State of Connecticut; the Chancellor and President of the College being ex officiis members, and the Chancellor being ex officio President of the same. They have authority to fill their own vacancies; to appoint to offices and professorships; to direct and manage the funds for the good of the College; and in general, to exercise the powers of a Collegiate Society, according to the provisions of the charter.

The HOUSE OF CONVOCATION consists of the Fellows and Professors of Trinity College, with all persons who have received any academic degree whatever in the same, except such as may lawfully be deprived of their privileges.

Its business is such as may from time to time be delegated by the Corporation, from which it derives its existence ; and is, at present, limited to consulting and advising for the good of the College ; nominating the Junior Fellows, and all candidates for admission ad eundem ; making laws for its own regulation ; proposing plans, measures or counsel to the Corporation ; and to instituting, endowing and naming, with concurrence of the same, professorships, scholarships, prizes, medals, and the like.

The CHANCELLOR is the Bishop of the Diocese of Connecticut, and is also the Visitor of the College.

The PRESIDENT. This officer, as his title imports, is the resident head and Rector of the College, and with the PROCTORS, who are the two senior Professors, the Executive of all laws for the discipline of undergraduates.

The FELLOWS. There are six Fellows appointed by the Corporation alone ; and six Junior Fellows, who must be Masters of Arts, appointed by the Corporation on nomination of Convocation ; and these together make the Board of Fellows. To this Board the Corporation commits the superintendence of the strictly academical business of the College ; of the course of study and examinations ; of the College laws ; of collegiate dress, and the like ; and also certain powers and privileges in recommending for degrees. Each Fellow and Junior Fellow is elected for three years ; but there is no emolument connected with the office, besides a provision for necessary expenses incurred in its discharge. The Fellows, therefore, under existing laws, are not ordinarily resident.

The DEAN OF CONVOCATION presides in that House, and is elected by the same biennially.

The PROFESSORS hold their appointments from the Corporation, and by lectures and otherwise, instruct in their several departments. With the President and Tutors, they also form a board of government and control over the under-graduates.

TUTORS and LECTURERS are appointed from time to time by the Corporation, to assist the Professors in the several departments of instruction. Private Tutors have no recognized character as officers of the College.

SCHOLARSHIPS. These are permanent endowments, held by certain under-graduates according to the terms of their foundation, and paying stipends of different amounts to their incumbents.

HALLS. There are three buildings belonging to the College, which, in 1845, received the names of the first three Bishops of the Diocese. SEABURY HALL, erected in 1825, contains the Chapel and the Library, Cabinet, and other public chambers. JARVIS HALL, erected in the same year, and BROWNELL HALL, erected in 1845, contain rooms for the officers and students; and a wing of each is the residence of a Professor and his family.

The GROUNDS, on which the Halls are erected, are an area of fourteen acres, laid out with walks, and ornamented with shade-trees and shrubbery. The site is elevated, overlooking on one side the city of Hartford, within the limits of which the grounds are situated, and on the other the Little River, (a branch of the Connecticut,) which forms their western boundary. This river is suitable for boating and for exercise in swimming.

The LIBRARY AND CABINET. There are about twelve thousand volumes in the Library in Seabury Hall, (in which are also the portraits of several officers and benefactors of the College,) including the valuable libraries of the Professor of Ecclesiastical History and a member of the Corporation. There are also two libraries belonging to societies of under-graduates, containing an aggregate of six thousand volumes. The cabinet is an extensive collection of minerals and geological specimens, to which has just been added an extensive collection of shells. A valuable philosophical apparatus is distributed through the lecture rooms of the several Professors requiring its aid in their instructions.

TERMS. There are three terms in the year, of from twelve to fourteen weeks each; during which every under-graduate is required to be resident, unless under special dispensation from the President.

EXAMINATIONS. These are held at the end of each term, in presence of examiners appointed by the Fellows, from their own number or otherwise; and every under-graduate is required to be present and sustain his prescribed examinations at such times, unless a special examination is allowed for sufficient causes.

VACATIONS. The Christmas vacation is two weeks from the Thursday preceding Christmas day. The Easter vacation is three weeks from the close of Lent term. The Midsummer vacation is eight weeks from Commencement day.

EXHIBITIONS. Junior Exhibition occurs at the close of Lent term; exhibitions of the literary societies, at such times as are deemed most convenient.

COMMENCEMENT. The last Thursday in July is Commencement day. On the day preceding, the Corporation and House of Convocation assemble, and an address and poem are publicly pronounced before the latter. On this day all applications for admissions ad eundem come before Convocation; and the annual elections of Fellows and Junior Fellows are usually held on this day, or on the morning following. On Commencement day, candidates for degrees perform appointed exercises in public; and all degrees are conferred and announced with prescribed forms.

DEGREES. The Corporation is authorized by its charter to confer degrees in the Arts, and in the faculties of Law, Medicine and Divinity. Nominations for degrees may come from the Fellows and Professors, or from the House of Convocation; but the candidates are admitted only by vote of the Corporation, and all degrees are publicly conferred in its name, by the President.

Degrees in the faculties of Divinity and Law are conferred, at present, either in course, honoris causâ, or on admission ad eundem. For the degree of Bachelor of Arts, the candidate must have sustained all his examinations, and paid all fees and charges; and must be nominated to the Corporation by the Fellows and the Faculty of Arts. To proceed Master of Arts, a like nomination is requisite at a period of not less than three years after commencing Bachelor. Masters may proceed Bachelors in either of the Faculties, at the end of seven years, upon the certificate of the Board of Fellows, grounded on examination and the recommendation of the Chancellor and the President of the College. Bachelors in either of the Faculties may proceed Doctors in the same, at the expiration of three years, on the recommendation of the Chancellor, accompanied with a certificate of examiners, and a satisfactory thesis composed by the candidate. Degrees honoris causâ appertain to the Corporation only.

Applications for degrees in course, should be made to the President of the College during Lent term.

The Instruction given in the preceding course of studies, is designed to be such as will promote habits of patient and accurate investigation. For this purpose, in the study of the ancient languages, particular attention is paid to their grammatical construction, to the composition and derivation of words; and the translations, especially toward the beginning of the course, are required to be as literal as the idiom of our language will permit. As the student advances, more freedom of translation is permitted, though in no case is he allowed to deviate from the exact meaning of his author, which he is required to express with clearness, precision and elegance.

In Mathematics, and in the English Studies generally, the most approved text-books are used, and the student is required to give an accurate analysis of the reasoning of his author. After the recitation is completed, remarks are made by the instructor on the principles recited, and their practical application shown by familiar illustrations. Lectures are also read on subjects connected with the main branches of study.

UNIVERSITY STUDENTS.

For the accommodation of those students who may desire to omit certain of the studies prescribed for a degree, the following provision has been made in the College statutes.

Students who do not propose to attend the whole course, may be permitted to recite with the regular classes, in such studies as, upon examination, they shall be found qualified to pursue. They shall enjoy all the privileges of the regular students, and shall be entitled to a certificate from the President, stating the time they were members of the College, and the studies pursued during that time.

GOVERNMENT AND DISCIPLINE.

The Government is administered by the President and Professors. It is designed to be mild and paternal—appealing to the better feelings of the heart, and aiming to prevent, rather than punish misconduct. Punishments involving public disgrace are resorted to with reluctance. If a student does not conduct himself to the satisfaction of the Faculty, his parent or guardian will be promptly informed of it, and if it is judged necessary, requested to remove him from the Institution. In cases where dispatch is important, the delinquent will be privately dismissed.

An accurate daily account of the proficiencies of every student, and also of his delinquencies,—if any occur,—is kept; an abstract of which is transmitted to his parent or guardian at the close of each term.

PUBLIC WORSHIP.

Prayers are attended every morning and evening in the College Chapel, when all the students are required to be present. They are also required to attend public worship on the Lord's Day, either in the Chapel, or at such places as their parents or guardians may desire.

EXPENSES.

For tuition, $11 per term; for room rent, from $3 to $4.50 per term; for the use of the Library, $1 per term; for sweeping rooms, ringing the bell, fuel for recitation rooms, and printing, $2 per term; all payable in advance. Besides the above, there will be occasional assessments for damages, extra printing, or other common expenses.

Students admitted to an advanced standing, unless from other Colleges, are required to pay $10 for each year of such advancement; and, for a shorter time than one year, in proportion.

The students reside in the College, and provide for themselves bed and bedding, furniture for their rooms, fire-wood, candles, stationery and washing. Books and furniture may be sold, when the student has no further use for them, at a moderate reduction from the original cost.

No Commons are established, as it is preferred that the students should board in private families, in the neighborhood of the College. Good board can now be procured for from $2.00 to $3.00 per week.

By a regulation of Corporation, the tuition is remitted to the Beneficiaries of the Church Scholarship Society, and to such other necessitous students as design to enter the ministry. The necessary College expenses of such, exclusive of personal expenses, for clothing, fuel, furniture, &c., are as follows:

| | | | |
|-------------------------------------|-----------|-----------------|-----------|
| Board, from | | $75.00 to $95 | per year. |
| Room rent, | | 10.50 | " |
| Use of Library, | | 3.00 | " |
| Attendance, Printing, &c., | | 6.00 | " |
| Assessment for public damages, &c., | | 4.50 | " |
| Total, | | | $99.00 |

To prevent extravagant or improper expenditures, it is recommended that all funds designed for the use of students should be placed in the hands of the College Bursar, who superintends their expenses with a parental discretion. The present Bursar is DUNCAN I. STEWART, M. A., Professor of Ancient Languages.

Prefatory Note.

THE Committee to whom was entrusted the duty of preparing and issuing a Catalogue of the names of the Alumni and others who have received degrees from Trinity College, now at length venture to submit the results of their labors to the graduates and friends of the College. It will be remembered that the main object in view, in issuing this Catalogue, is to render it the basis of a perfect list of the names and address of all our graduates. Those into whose hands it may come will see both what has been done and what yet remains to be done, and they are earnestly requested, where there is any deficiency or inaccuracy in their own case, whether it relate to name, date, profession, residence, or degree, or where they may have positive information in relation to others not likely to be reached by this publication, that they will communicate such accurate information for future use.

The graduating class of each year is placed first. Then, after a line of separation, follow the honorary and ad eundem degrees of that year. Where the date of a death is known it is inserted, and where it is not known the fact is marked by a star. The blank spaces indicate the want of information.

The Committee are largely indebted to the friendly co-operation of Messrs. Charles J. Hoadly, N. M. Belden and B. G. Whitman. The historical sketch is compiled from a more extended account prepared by Mr. Hoadly.

Communications containing corrections and additions to be used in future Catalogues, should be addressed to B. G. WHITMAN, Esq., Registrar of the House of Convocation.

Historical Sketch.

AT a very early period in the history of the Diocese of Connecticut, after its complete organization by the consecration of SEABURY, its first Bishop, in 1784, a seminary of sound learning and Christian education began to be regarded as a desideratum. The first step in this direction was the founding of the Cheshire Academy; the earliest measures for the establishment of which were taken by a Convocation of the Clergy of the Diocese under Seabury, held at East Haddam in February, 1792. This institution, which was incorporated with limited privileges in 1801, was designed to serve as the foundation of an institution of a higher character as soon as a Charter conferring full Collegiate powers could be obtained from the State. In this view it was often spoken of as "Seabury College."

Unavailing efforts were made to enlarge the powers of the Academy in 1804, and again in 1810. In one instance only were they so far successful that an act granting a Collegiate Charter was passed by a decided vote in the House of Representatives, but rejected by the Council (Senate.) Vacancy in the Episcopate and, afterwards, the establishment of the General Theological Seminary, were among the causes which led the Churchmen of Connecticut to defer their project for founding a College to happier times, which seem to have dawned with the adoption of the State Constitution in 1818. For Bishop Brownell, who was consecrated in 1819, was enabled shortly after to carry the design into execution. A petition numerously signed was presented to the Legislature on the 13th of May, 1823. On the 16th the charter passed the lower House and soon after received the sanction of the Senate and the signature of the Governor.

The news of the final passage of the bill granting the charter was received with great joy by the citizens of Hartford. Cannon were fired and bonfires lighted. Measures were immediately taken to raise the requisite funds, the charter having provided that the Trustees should not proceed to organize the institution until funds to the amount of $30,000 should be secured. Over $50,000 were immediately subscribed; three-fourths of this sum in Hartford and its vicinity. An ample site, possessing rare capabilities, was secured on an eminence overlooking the city of Hartford and about half a mile west of the State House. The buildings were begun in June, 1824, and the College commenced its operations in September of the same year—Bishop BROWNELL being its first President. The first Commencement was held in August, 1827, in the Centre Church, when ten young gentlemen received the degree of B. A.

Bishop BROWNELL finding that the cares and labors of the Diocese required his undivided attention, resigned the presidency in 1831, and was succeeded by the Rev. N. S. WHEATON, D. D., who continued at the head of the College until 1837. During his presidency, and chiefly by his personal efforts, the Hobart Professorship was endowed with the sum of $20,000; the Seabury Professorship of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy with $14,000, and large additions made to the general funds of the institution. The Rev. SILAS TOTTEN, D. D., was chosen President in 1837, and continued to hold the office till the close of the academic year in 1848. During his incumbency Brownell Hall was erected (in 1845;) the funds having been mainly contributed by the citizens of Hartford. About the same time a Charity fund, amounting to $12,000, was raised by subscription throughout the Diocese, to enable the College to give free tuition in the form of Scholarships to those who may need such assistance.

By permission of the Legislature of this same year (1845) the name of the College was changed from Washington to Trinity. It was in 1845 that the Trustees passed certain statutes organizing the House of Convocation and creating the Board of Fellows.

The Rev. Dr. Totten was succeeded in 1848 by the Rev. JOHN WILLIAMS, D. D., an alumnus of the College. Under his Presidency the library was considerably augmented, the number of students increased, the Professorship of Public Economy established, and a Theological Department organized. In 1849, by an alteration of the charter, the Bishop of the Diocese was made Chancellor and ex officio President of the Board of Trustees. In 1851, Dr. Williams was elected Assistant Bishop of this Diocese, and in 1853 finding that his Episcopal duties demanded his whole time and attention, he resigned the presidency of the College. His successor is the Rev. DANIEL R. GOODWIN, D. D., late of Bowdoin College, who entered on his duties in September, 1853. The year 1854 saw the Scovill Professorship of Chemistry and Natural Science endowed with $20,000 by a single family, and a donation of $5,000 from a single individual, which is to be known as the Elton fund for the library—acts of noble generosity which it is hoped will serve as fruitful examples to others who have the welfare of the College at heart and who at the same time possess the ability to promote it. It is, we are happy to learn, the purpose of the Trustees and friends of the College to go on and endow at least one professorship every year until its apparatus for instruction is, in all respects, of the most complete and perfect character.

The College grounds comprise about fourteen acres, and are laid out with walks, and ornamented with trees and shrubbery. The site commands a view, on the one side of the city of Hartford, and on the other of a fine expanse of cultivated country. The Little River, which forms its north-western boundary, supplies a convenient place for bathing and rowing in the summer and for skating in winter. The proposed new park of thirty acres, which has been voted by the citizens of Hartford, joins the College grounds on the north, and will, when laid out, graded and planted with trees, add very much to their beauty.

The College Halls—three in number—are built of Portland stone, and in the Ionic style. Jarvis Hall, which was erected in 1824, is 45 feet in width, 150 in length and four stories high. Seabury Hall, erected in 1824, 90 by 55 feet, and three stories high—contains the Chapel, 50 by 35 feet, which is furnished with a fine organ, the library and cabinet, each of the same dimensions with the Chapel, the laboratory, the philosophical and other public rooms. Brownell Hall, built in 1845, is 48 by 150 feet, and four stories high.

The COLLEGE LIBRARY contains about 6,000 volumes and more than 4,000 pamphlets. It is rich in the Latin classics, the works of the Fathers of the Church and works on the Romish Controversy. There are also two libraries belonging to the Literary Societies, which together contain upwards of 6,000 volumes.

The CABINET contains an extensive collection of minerals and geological specimens, to which has recently been added one of the finest collections of shells in the country.

There are more than thirty endowed scholarships, which yield their incumbents from $30 to $100 per annum, and which afford great encouragement to young men of slender means who are struggling to secure a liberal education. Besides this aid, the Church Scholarship Society, founded in 1827, gives assistance to such necessitous students as design to enter the ministry, to the extent of $100 per annum during the last three years of their College course.
